ASTRONOMICAL DIARY,
O R
A L M A N A C,
FOR THE YEAR OF CHRISTIAN ERA,

I 7 8 5.
BEING THE FIRST AFTER BISSEXTILE
O R
LEAP YEAR.

Calculated for the Meridian of PORTSMOUTH,
NEW-HAMPSHIRE, Latitude $43^{\circ} 5'$ North.
[But will serve for any of the New-England States.]
Containing, every thing necessary for such a Work; with the addition of a variety of Entertainment in Prose and Verse.

By DANIEL SEWALL, Philomath.

*We see again
Those gentle days renew'd, that bless'd our land
Before the wasteful fury of division,
Worse than Mount Etna's most destructive fires,
Is desolated sunk. We see our plains
Unbounded swaying with the gifts of harvest,
Our seas with commerce throng'd, our busy ports
With chearful toil.—O beautiful PEACE,
Sweet union of a state! what else but thee
Gives safety, strength, and glory to a people."*

PORTSMOUTH, NEW-HAMPSHIRE

PRINTED, AND TO BE SOLD, BY ROBERT GERRISH.

Also, by the BOOKSELLERS in Town and Country.

AS I have repeatedly expressed my dislike to Prefaces, perhaps some thoughts which recommend the study of Astronomy, may as well fill this place, and be as entertaining to the reader as an ill-wrote preface.

In serene weather, when our hearts are cheared, and we feel that exaltation of spirits which results from light and warmth, joined with a beautiful prospect of nature, we may regard ourselves as placed by the hand of Providence in the midst of an ample theatre, in which the sun, moon and stars, the fruits also, and vegetables of the earth, perpetually changing their positions, or their aspects, exhibit an elegant entertainment to the understanding, as well as to the eye.

Thunder and lightening, rain and hail, the painted bow, and the glaring comets, are decorations of this mighty theatre. And the sable hemisphere studded with spangles, the blue vault at noon, the glorious gildings and rich colors in the horizon, we may consider as so many successive scenes.

When we consider things in this light, perhaps it is a sort of impiety to have no attention to the course of nature, and the revolutions of the heavenly bodies. To be regardless of those phenomena that are placed within our view, on purpose to entertain our faculties, and display the wisdom and power of their Creator, is perhaps an affront to providence.

And yet how few are there who attend to the drama of nature, its artificial structure, and those admirable machines, whereby the passions of a philosopher are gratefully agitated, and his soul affected with the sweet emotions of joy and surprise.

How many fox hunters and rural squires are to be found in America, who are intirely ignorant that they have all this while lived on a planet, that the sun is several thousand times bigger than the earth; and that there are other worlds within our view greater and more glorious than our own. Aye, but says some illiterate fellow, I enjoy the world and leave others to contemplate it. Yes, you eat and drink, and run about upon it; that is, you enjoy it as an irrational creature; but to enjoy it as a rational being, is to know it, to be sensible of its greatness and beauty, to be delighted with its harmony, and by these reflections to obtain just sentiments of the Almighty mind that framed it.

The man, who, unembarrassed with vulgar cares, leisurly attends to the flux of things in heaven, and things on earth, and observes the laws by which they are governed, hath secured to himself an easy and convenient seat, where he beholds with pleasure all that passes on the stage of nature, while those about him are, some fast asleep, and others struggling for the highest places, or turning their eyes from the entertainment prepared by providence, to play at push-pin with one another.

Within this ample circumference of the world, the glorious lights that are hung on high, the meteors in the middle region, the various liveries of the earth, and the profusion of good things that distinguish the seasons, yields a prospect which annihilates all human grandeur. — What remains of this subject, will be deferred 'till another opportunity.

On the RETURN of SPRING.

WHEN the rough WINTER in his rigor rises,
Sleet-ice and hail-stones, with the reinless fury,
Of the mad whirlwinds, thro' the vast of HEAVEN,
riding in uproar:
How the broad meadows, how the fields and forests,
Strip'd of their verdure, desolate and dreary
Form the dire ruin, while in floating mountains, rolls the wild ocean.
But when the SPRING comes with her balmy breezes,
And her brows circled with a blaze of sun-beams,
How the scence changes, and what blooming beauty smiles all around her.

What a rich landscape! every grove and garden,
Hills, lawns and vallies, bless the revolution;
Buds and gay blossoms, and a flowry carpet vesting creation.

What a rich emblem (cries the saint in transport, Viewing all nature, from her death emerging)
Of the fair morning, when the LORD of life comes thron'd in his glory

Rais'd by his mandate from the earth and oceans, Pouring their millions, see the saints arising Blooming immortal, all array'd in splendor like their REDEEMER!

THE PLANET VENUS will be occidental or EVENING STAR 'till the thirtieth of May; thence oriental or MORNING STAR till the end of the year.

A RECEIPT for making POTATOE BREAD.

TAKE your potatoes, boil them, peel them, then rub them or break them to pieces into the flower, (either wheat and rye, or all wheat) then mix your dough as usual, three parts flour and one of potatoes, or any other proportion; as experience may dictate.

E P I T A P H,

On Mr. THOMAS HAMMOND, Parish-Clerk of St. Andrew in Kent, who was a very good Man, and an excellent Back-gammon-player, and was succeeded in office by a Mr. PRICE.

BY the chance of the die,
On his back he doth lie,
Our most audible Clerk, Master Hammond;
Tho' he bore many men
'Till three-score and ten,
Yet, at length, he by death is back-gammon'd.
But hark! neighbours hark!
Here again comes the Clerk;
By a bit very lucky and nice,
With Death we'er now even;
He just step'd up to Heaven,
And is with us again in a TRICE.

ONCE more the faithful year, with new-born date,
 Impels her progress round the solar throne,
 While clouds and storms her coursing car await Along the regions of the frigid zone.

While casual rain sur-smooth the frozen flood
Safe may the youth on scouring scates advance,
And sportive wheel for many a rapid rood.

 Bleak Boreas rages with decreasing wing
 From Bondage loos'd, the glad some glebe appears,
 And sure of conquest, comes the smiling spring.

The reaper's heart with conscious pleasure swells;
And thunder, while it tears the mantled sky,
The latent seeds of dire disease dispels.

DECEMBER.

1785

The closing year at length in shades is cast,
 And here her scenes in dead confusion mix:
 Thus time itself shall be dispatch'd at last,
 The final scene to close, our final fate to fix.

ON FEMALE GAMESTERS.

THE practice of gaming, when carried to excess, is perhaps the most shameful but one, that the female world can fall into. The ill consequences of it are more than can be contained in this place.—However, for method's sake we shall consider them : First, as they relate to the mind ; secondly, as they relate to the body.

Could we look into the mind of a female gamester, we should see it full of nothing but trumps and clubs—Her numbers are haunted with kings, queens and knaves—the day lies heavy upon her till the play season returns, when, for many hours together, all her faculties are employed in shuffling, cutting, dealing and sorting out a pack of cards, and no idea to be discovered in a soul which calls itself rational, excepting little figures of painted and spotted paper. Was the understanding, that divine part in our composition, given for such an use ? Is it thus that we improve the greatest talents human nature is indowed with ? What would a superior being think, were he shewn this intellectual faculty in a female gamester, and at the same time told that it was by this she was distinguished from brutes, and allied to angels ?

When our women thus fill their imaginations with pips and counters, we cannot wonder at a story which was lately told, of a child that was marked with the seven of spades.

Their passions suffer no less by this practice than their understandings and imaginations. What hope and fear, joy and anger, sorrow and discontent, break out all at once in a fair assembly, upon so noble an occasion as that of turning up a card ! Who can consider without a secret indignation, that all those affections of the mind, which should be consecrated to their children, husbands and parents, are thus vilely prostituted and thrown away upon a game at whist ! We cannot but be grieved, when we see a fine woman fretting and bleeding inwardly from such trivial motives ; when we behold the face of an angel agitated and discomposed by the heart of a fury.

Our minds are of such a make, that they naturally give themselves up to every diversion which they are most accustomed to, and we always find that play when followed with assiduity, engrosses the whole woman. She quickly grows uneasy in her own family, takes but little pleasure in all the domestic innocent endearments of life, and grows more fond play, than of her husband; who is often forced to keep la-hours, if he would enjoy his wife's conversation. When she returns to him with joy in her face, it does not arise so much from the sight of her husband, as from the good luck she has had at cards. On the contrary, if she has been a loser, he is doubly a sufferer by it. She comes home out of humour, angry with every body, displeased with all her husband can do or say, and in reality for no other reason, but because she has been throwing away his estate. What charming bed-fellows and companions for life are men likely to meet with, that choose their wives out of such women of vogue and fashion? What a race of worthies, what patriots, what heroes, must we expect from mothers of this make?

We come in the next place to consider the ill consequences,
which gaming has on the bodies of our female adventurers.
It is so ordered that almost every thing which corrupts the soul, decays the body. The beauties of the face and mind are generally destroyed by the same means. This consideration should have a particular weight with the female world, who were designed to please the eye and attract the regards of the other half of the species. Now there is no thing which wears out a fine face, like the vigils of the ca-table, and those cutting passions which naturally attend them.
Hollow eyes, haggard looks, and pale complexions, are the natural indications of a female gamester. Her morning sleep are not able to repair her midnight watchings. In short, it has been observed that a thorough-paced female gamester never was known to hold her beauty two winters together.
But there is still another case in which the body is more endangered than in the former. All play debts must be paid in specie, or by equivalent. The man who plays beyond his income pawns his estate; the woman must find out something else to mortgage, when her pin money is gone: the husband has his lands to dispose of, the wife her person.
Now when the female body is once dipped, if the creditor be very importunate we may easily guess at the consequences.

On T H O M A S.

W H E N Thomas calls his Wife his Half;

I like the Fellows whim,

For why? She horns him,—to the Jilt

Belongs but Half to him.

The Legislature of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, in their November session, 1784, passed an Act for ascertaining the rates at which coined silver and gold, and English half-pence and farthings, shall pass within the same. -- From which the following is an extract: --

A French or English Crown, at 6/8 pence, and all divisions of such crowns in proportion. --- A Spanish milled dollar, at 6/ and all divisions of such dollar in proportion. --- An English guinea of the weight of five penny weight and six grains, at 28/ and all divisions of such guinea in equal proportion. --- A French guinea of the weight of five penny-weight and six grains, at 27/4. --- A coin of Portugal commonly called a johannes, of the weight of eighteen penny-weight, at £.4-16/ and all divisions of such johannes in like proportion. --- A moidore, of the weight of six penny-weight, eighteen grains, at 36/ and all divisions of moidores in like proportion. --- A four pistole piece, called a dubloon, of the weight of sixteen penny-weight, twelve grains, at £.4-8/ and all divisions of the same coin in like proportion. --- Three English farthings at 1d. and English half-pence in proportion.

All pieces of coined gold, before enumerated, and which shall weigh more or less than is by this act established, as their current weight, will be received in payment for the taxes hereafter to be received into the Treasury of this Commonwealth; and in all debts for a sum proportioned to the value of gold, as hereby stated, viz. at £.5-6-8d. per ounce. --- All former Acts respecting Coins are repealed.

AS the Legislature of the State of New-Hampshire, adjourned previous to the publication of the above act, the Merchants of Portsmouth, conceiving it would carry all the gold now passing in said State into the Massachusetts, unless speedily prevented, by raising it to an equal value within this State, have entered into an Association to receive all gold coins in payment of any debts, or in exchange for any thing they have to dispose of, at the rates they are fixed at by said act, until the General-Court of this State shall make a law touching this matter as to their wisdom shall seem meet.

THE SECRET OF BEING ALWAYS EASY.

A CERTAIN Clergyman, struggled through great difficulties without repining, and met with great opposition in the discharge of his sacred function, without betraying the least impatience. An intimate friend of his, who highly admired those virtues which he thought it impossible to imitate, one day asked the priest if he could communicate the secret of being ALWAYS EASY? "Yes," replied the old man, "I can teach you my secret, and with great facility, it consists in nothing more than in making a right use of my eyes." His friend begg'd him to explain himself; "Most willingly," said he, "In whatever state I am I first look up to heaven, and remember that my principal business here is to get there: I then look down upon the earth, and call to mind what a small space I shall occupy in it, when I come to be interred. I then look abroad into the world, and observe what multitudes there are who are in all respects more unhappy than myself. Thus I learn where true happiness is placed, where all our cares must end, and how very little reason I have to repine or complain."

THE CELEBRATED DR. BOERHAVE'S RECIPE FOR HEALTH.

HAVING ordered that all his manuscripts and books should be burnt, one large volume, with gilt leaves and silver clasps, excepted. The physical people flocked to Leyden, and entreated the executors to disobey the will. The effects were sold. A German Count, convinced that the great gilt book contained the whole arcana of physics, bought it at ten thousand gilders. It was all blank but the first page, on which was written, "KEEP THE HEAD COOL, THE FEET WARM, AND THE BODY OPEN—AND BID DEFERENCE TO THE PHYSICIAN."

A BATH ANECDOTE.

A VERY young Lady having made a very large acquaintance among the beaux and pretty fellows in BATH, was asked by Mr. Nash, what she would do with them all?—"Oh, says she, they pass off like the waters."—"And pray, Madam, replied he, do they pass off the same way?"

Spoke Extempore by ALLEN RAMSAY, on two young Ladies who asked him to make verses upon them.

O N that Cheek sits blooming youth,
Heaven sparkles in that Eye;
There's something sweet about each Mouth,
Dear Ladies let me try.

THE PRINTER hereof has lately procured from EUROPE, at great expence, a complete PRINTING-APPARATUS, which will enable him to carry on the business with elegance and dispatch, provided he shall receive from the public such encouragement as it shall be his study to serve.
PORTSMOUTH, December 1784.

AN OLD PROVERB MISAPPLY'D.

THE good woman was much out when she spilt the ashes in her husband's pottage, and then cry'd, "What ado you make, EVERY MAN MUST EAT A PECK OF DIRT IN HIS LIFE! Why aye Wife, says he, that's true, BUT PRITHEE WHY SO MUCH AT A TIME?"—The answer was apposite and just, for at that rate the Peck in the Proverb may be advanced to a bushel, or more; and therefore this Proverb is misapply'd when Sluts use it for their defence.

THE WINTER'S WALK.

BEHOLD, my fair, where'er we walk,
What dreary prospects round us rise;
The naked hill, the leafless grove,
The hoary ground, the frowning skies!

Nor only through the wasted plain,
Stern Winter is thy force confess'd,
Still wider spreads thy horrid reign,
I feel thy power usurp my breast.

Enliv'ning hope and fond desire,
Resign the heart to spleen and care,
Scarce frighted love maintains her fire,
And rapture saddens to despair.

In groundless hope, and causeless fear,
Unhappy man! behold thy doom,
Still changing with the changeful year,
The slave of sunshine and of gloom.

Tir'd with vain joys, and false alarms,
With mental and corporeal strife,
Snatch me, my Stella, to thy arms,
And screen me from the ills of life.

A RECEIPT for the GRAVEL or STONE

FILL a large bottle, or any vessel, four parts in with the wood of strawberry, adding as much Liss sugar as will make the infusion palatable, then fill the vessel up with brandy, or (for want of that spirit) with rum let it stand close corked for five weeks, when it is fit for use. A glass of it will give immediate ease in the severest fit, by continuance entirely cure the patient. Pour off the infusion at the expiration of six weeks, and the same beer will make a second if suffered to stand two months, squeeze the fruit when taken out.

EPITAPH ON A COBLER.

LET drop a Tear my gentle friend,
And pity the poor Cobler's end.
This honest fellow work'd so fast,
He wore his Awl out and his Last.
On future bliss he can't depend,
His soul is grown too bad to mend.

EPIGRAM.

THE BAD BARGAIN ON BOTH SIDES.

YOUNG Rakish address'd a stout jolly plump lass,
To retrieve his lost health, and in hopes of an heir
Miss Lure well had practis'd each art at her glass,
In hopes of a fortune, his heart to ensnare.

No sooner propos'd than the Bargain is struck,
They both took each other for better for worse :
Both were happy a while, 'till (oh woeful ill luck !)
She prov'd barren in BODY, he barren in PURSE.

EPIGRAM.

PRAY friend can you tell me says Robin to Harry,
Why Soldiers at six-pence a-day always marry ?
Quoth he, my dear Robin, they're much in the right,
What he gets a-days she'll double at night.

AN EPIGRAM.

AS Tom was one day in deep chat with his friend,
He gravely advis'd him his manners to mend,
That his morals were bad, he had heard it from many,
They lie reply'd Tom : for I never had any.
